

Care of your pet's bandage or dressing

- Keep the bandage dry. The veterinary nurse will give you a plastic boot for your pet to wear when they go outside.
- The bandage is not designed to be walked on excessively and your pet's exercise should, therefore, be restricted.
- Your pet should not be allowed to bite or chew at the bandage. If there is a possibility of this, they may have to wear a buster collar or have it covered with a sock.

You must call the veterinary surgery if.....

- the material starts to unwind
- the bandage or dressing gets wet
- the bandage or dressing starts to smell
- your pet seems uncomfortable (eg if your pet tries to bite or chew at the bandage or dressing excessively)
- the bandage starts to slip
- there is any swelling above or below the bandage
